Project itinerary

Your regular Monday to Friday routine will involve an Australian breakfast at 8:00 am followed by a journey to the rescue centre at 9:30 am. Throughout each day you will assist with the following tasks:

- feeding the animals
- carrying out daily or hourly monitoring of the animals, assessing them and reporting on their condition
- observing and reporting any changes in behaviour
- changing dressings and bandages as required
- washing and cleansing animals as required
- administering medicine and ointments as necessary
- maintaining the cleanliness of enclosures and the overall environment
- Enriching the lives of the animals
- Visiting the beaches to feed the dogs

You'll have a break to rest and have a light lunch at 12:00, and resume the daily tasks between 2:00pm and 4:30pm. Finishing your duties at 4:30 pm you will then have a 30 minute journey to the accommodation centre. After taking the chance to rest, you will enjoy a dinner consisting of local Indian Cuisine and vegetarian dishes. Each day will end with a light entertainment session, possibly a movie, and some free time.

Evenings and Weekends

You are free to do as you wish at the weekends, kicking back at your accommodation, or travelling further afield with your new-found friends.

Places to Visit

Goa has a very long coastline with an almost unbroken sand cover. So, if you've come looking for sun, sand and sea without the crowds and the fuss you'll be pleased to discover these beaches tucked away in quiet recesses where you can go to truly escape the world. Here is our list of secluded beaches to try during your Goa weekend getaways. You might have to take your own food and water as there are no eateries or accommodation near some of them. And though some of them may seem out of their way, you'll be glad for the peace and quiet when you get there.

- Butterfly Beach
- Kakolem Beach
- Galjibag Beach
- Hollant Beach
- Betul Beach
- Arambol Beach
- Agonda Beach
- Cola Beach
- Velsao Beach
- Siquerim Beach
- Siridao Beach

Goa has a pleasant climate all around the year. Monsoon season is from June to September which is the rainy season for Goa. Goa gets an average rainfall of 330 cm annually which is about 90% of its annual rainfall. This season also happens to be the favourite of the travellers coming to Goa with its various celebrations happening. And from October to March it gets a very pleasant climate with
